

HOW TO GO FROM/TO

About transportation in Paris and its area

You can buy travel tickets in any Métro or/and RER station in an automated terminal (cash/credit card). A ticket is valid for one ride only till you get out of the Métro/RER station and can't be combined with Trams/Buses.

Price list

- A book of 10 tickets Inner-Paris (zones 1 & 2) costs 14,50 €. Same tickets can be used for buses/trams (same price ticket, one ride only)
- A weekly travel pass called “Navigo Découverte” can also be bought in certain Métro and/or RER station (see the list here). The price of the pass itself is 5 €. You can then pay a flat rate of 22,15 € for an unlimited number of rides from zone 1 to zone 5 (that is, anywhere between Paris, ENPC champs-sur Marne and ENSTA ParisTech) from Monday to Sunday (it hence won't include whatever ride you'll want to take the week-end before the scientific courses start).

For more info, please refer to parisbytrain.com.

To prepare for your rides, please refer to SNCF Transilien Route planner and / or download the Mobile application “RATP” and search for “fastest” connection from “my location” even to “destination address”.

We hereby propose principal rides you may have to prepare in advance to give you an idea on how to go from/to.

For sports people!

Bike-sharing system (VELIB')

Tickets can be bought at any of 1800 stations in the city. 1,70€ for 24-hours ticket or 8€ for 7-days ticket. First 30 min of each rent is free. Mobile application “Vélib” helps you locate bike stations and available number of bikes. For each ticket your credit card is charged €150, which is returned few days after ticket expiration. Follow the instructions at the station carefully.
